

Accredited Member Guidelines

As the national association of speaking professionals, including professional speakers, presenters, entertainers and MCs in New Zealand, NSANZ is committed to supporting its members to attain professional accreditation. Although the only designation currently accepted and acknowledged internationally are those of 'Certified Speaking Professional' (CSP), Fellowship of the Professional Speaking Association of UK & Ireland (Fellow of PSA UK&I) and the Global Speaking Fellow, NSANZ provides a pathway of professional accreditation to assist its members enhance their skills and expertise, and acknowledge their achievements as a speaking professional. The criteria and requirements for the attainment of accredited member status of NSANZ closely match those of the Professional Speakers Australia (PSA) and are set out below.

The status of ACCREDITED MEMBER replaces the designation of Accredited Speaking Member (ASM). Broadly speaking, applicants who qualify for this status are deriving some income as a keynote speaker, presenter, trainer, facilitator, or master of ceremonies (MC) and demonstrate a base level of eloquence, expertise and enterprise as assessed by NSANZ's assessment panel.

These guidelines have been created to answer queries regarding the process, standards and criteria for accreditation as fully as possible. If you have any queries regarding accreditation after reading these guidelines please contact the National Secretariat in the first instance:

Email: secretary@NationalSpeakers.org.nz

There are two parts of assessment:

- Part 1 is objective and creates a threshold. Assessment at part 1 reviews evidence of the number of presentations undertaken and minimum fees/revenue earned.
- Part 2 is subjective and measures eloquence by way of direct peer-assessment and evidence of completion of five components of NSANZ's Core Competency/Academy Intensive (previously known as the Professional Development Series).

For both parts of assessment, the onus is on the applicant to provide sufficient evidence to enable a full and fair assessment to be made in line with the requirements set out in this document. Incomplete applications will not be processed and any waiver of the requirements will be made in exceptional circumstances only at the total discretion of the Accreditation Assessment Panel. Such waivers are rare.

In order to protect the applicant's privacy, and avoid other members of NSANZ gaining access to information regarding an applicant's clients, earnings and so on, assessment and verification of information provided at Part 1 shall be undertaken by an independent assessor who shall be neither a speaking professional, nor a member of NSANZ. This Part 1 assessor shall undertake the relevant checks of information provided under Part 1 of the application i.e. contacting clients to confirm engagement details and revenues earned and so on, and notify the Assessment Panel of the validity of the information as appropriate.

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

For the purposes of accreditation, the following definitions apply:

‘Speaking Professional’ is defined as a speaker, presenter, trainer, facilitator or master of ceremonies (MC) who personally delivers a minimum of 75% of the material at an event, generally for a minimum of 30 minutes, to an audience of several or more people. The speaker may be booked under their company or trading name, but the person applying for the designation must have delivered the presentation.

‘Presentation-related income’ is defined as:

- Specific monetary fees paid by a client for the speaker’s services.
- Fees earned as a result of public events/sessions provided by the applicant.
- Revenue earned from sales of the speaker’s own or others’ products, including workbooks, handouts and other material as a direct result of the presentation in addition to a monetary fee.
- Revenue earned from sales of the speaker’s own or others’ products at the event from payment or orders taken on the day.
- Revenue generated as a result of sales by way of websites, book-stores or any other channel, outlet or media other than a direct presentation are NOT considered ‘presentation related income’ and are specifically excluded.

‘Client’ is defined as:

- A company, organisation or individual who provides payment in return for speaking services provided by a speaking professional.
- At Member level, if an employer requires the applicant to make presentations on their behalf, and remunerates them for the presentation either as part of their usual salary or separately, the employer is considered a client.
- One organization may consist of several different clients where there is a new, independent decision-maker, separate budget, and the corporate structure identifies a group as a separate division e.g.

- If a National Manager authorizes a series of presentations in several different locations (e.g. a road-show or multi-presentation type event) this qualifies as one client with multiple presentations.
- If managers in different locations each individually engage a speaker for distinctly different presentations then each manager is considered a different client.

'Presentation' is defined as:

- Keynote address or Plenary presentation – usually delivered to an entire conference audience and be of 30 minutes to 90 minutes duration.
- Platform presentation, Break-out session or Workshop session – usually delivered to a sub-set of conference attendees and generally of 30 minutes to 90 minutes duration or more.
- Seminar or Workshop – typically run from half a day to several - often consecutive - days. A seminar will focus more on the speaker with some discussion. A workshop may be more interactive than a seminar, and is likely to involve participants engaging in discussion and some kind of activity. For the purposes of accreditation, a multiple-day engagement is deemed to be one presentation.
- Training Programme - In a training program, participants will learn/are trained in a particular skill, or set of skills, that they should be able to demonstrate and apply at the end of the programme. For the purposes of accreditation at least 75% of the content should be from the speaker personally presenting. For the purposes of accreditation multiple-day training programmes are deemed to be one presentation.
- Master of Ceremonies engagement - The Master of Ceremonies (MC or Emcee) generally works with the organiser to make sure a conference or event runs smoothly. They may introduce and thank the speakers, keep the event running to time, provide links between speakers and sessions and be on hand to fulfil any need to keep an event running smoothly. Some, but not all, MCs may also provide some level of 'entertainment' as part of their MC'ing duties.
- After-Dinner/Luncheon/Breakfast address - usually delivered to an audience of several or more and be of 20 minutes to 45 minutes duration.
- Public Seminar/Event – typically (but not necessarily) events the applicant has organised and presented personally. For the purposes of accreditation full details of the event must be provided including the number of attendees, the attendance fee charged and the total revenue generated. The names, email addresses and/or contact phone number of attendees must also be provided to enable follow-up with attendees by the designated assessor, if required, and evidence of payment may also be required on request.
- Tele-seminars, Webinars and similar activities – An applicant who derives income from these types of activities must provide evidence of personally delivering a minimum of 75% of the material live and in person (i.e. not pre-recorded or made available to attendees following the live event), generally for a minimum of 30 minutes, to an audience of several or more people. Full details of the event must be provided including the number of attendees, the attendance fee charged and the total revenue generated. The names, email addresses and/or contact phone number of attendees must also be provided to enable follow-up with attendees by the designated assessor, if required. Evidence of payment may also be required.

- Facilitation – typically more process focused than content focused. The facilitator is typically responsible for guiding a group through a facilitative process. For the purposes of accreditation at Member level the engagement will be eligible where it meets the definition of ‘Speaking Professional’ i.e. where the presenter personally presents more than 75% of the material or content, and not where the engagement requires the major part of the work to be information gathering from the participants. A person who is facilitating a Planning Workshop, for example, may be unlikely to meet the 75% of material measure. A person who facilitates a workshop in their area of expertise may qualify.
- Coaching and Consulting Services are NOT regarded as speaking presentations for the purposes of accreditation and are ineligible for inclusion in the application.

Applications for exemption must be made prior to the full application being submitted. Full applications should not be submitted until written exemption advice has been received and should be included with the full application or the application will be rejected. The onus will be on the speaker to demonstrate why an exemption should be considered and it should therefore be comprehensive as the decision to accept or reject the application may be based solely on the information provided by the speaker. There is no onus on the Accreditation Assessment Panel to make further enquiries although nothing prevents them from doing so should they choose.

Retention of Status

Once attained, the member may be required to demonstrate the achievement of minimum requirements for retention as determined by the National Executive from time to time.

Official Declarations

In submitting an application for accreditation the member warrants that all information provided by them is truthful and accurate. Applications found to contain false or misleading information, either during the assessment process, or after accreditation has been awarded, shall result in the application being rejected and/or the status being withdrawn, the fee forfeited and the member barred from re-applying for a period determined by the National Executive upon the recommendation of the Assessment Panel.
